

LSE - 07 Organization Theory: an interdisciplinary approach

About this unit

The BSc Management program (Standard Route) consists of twelve units and you can study four units per year (see below the lists of the Foundation and Further units).

Here next you can read some details of this unit and then shortly about studies generally.

Organization theory: an interdisciplinary approach

Prerequisite

If taken as part of a BSc Degree, Introduction to sociology or Principles of sociology or Elements of social and applied psychology or Introduction to economics.

Exclusion

This unit may not be taken with Organization theory.

Aims and objectives

This unit explores the ways in which organizations can be designed (by management or others) in order to achieve their objectives. It will expose the student to the ways in which economists, psychologists and sociologists address this and related issues. It is, therefore, an interdisciplinary unit comparing and contrasting the contribution of the core social science disciplines to the study of organizations.

The unit draws upon both theoretical and empirical materials and the student will be encouraged to draw upon their own local knowledge in pursuing their studies. There will be an emphasis (though not exclusive) on organizations, set up with an economics objective.

Learning outcomes

On completing the unit the student should be able to:

- Describe the essential features of organizations.
- Understand the factors shaping these features.
- Appreciate the evolution of different organizational designs/types.
- Understand how managers may build and change organizations.
- Understand how different organizational forms impact on the individual within organizations.

Generally about the studies:

Tuition to the LSE Management program

Once you have registered and received your study material from London School of Economics you are on your own until the examinations take place. Yet to structure your own time and studies can be difficult.

That is why MKFC Stockholm College offers you tuition so you can get the most out of your external studies at London School of Economics.

MKFC Stockholm College is using an e-learning platform that makes it easy for every student to follow the syllabus, receive tuition and interact with other students no matter where in the world the student may be.

Each student will also get individual teacher feedback and tuition during ten months per year. Our goal is to improve the skills through tuition so the student passes the examinations and receives a degree from one of the finest universities in the world within the planned timeframe.

The aim of the range of units available is to look analytically and critically at management issues, whilst developing your logical reasoning abilities. As a student you will develop critical skills for a wide range of real world professional situations, as well as get excellent preparation for a career in management consultancy or general management.
